

Henrietta 2030

RIT Architecture Students propose a town center for Henrietta

Imagine a Henrietta with a village and a main street.

Imagine a Henrietta that is walkable from residential neighborhoods.

Imagine a Henrietta town center with shops, restaurants, and year round and all-day activities.

Imagine a Henrietta where municipal services, a supermarket, and commercial development are connected.

RIT architecture students have done just that, by redesigning Suburban Plaza into a hub based on new urbanist principles. They invite you to join them as they display and explain their designs.

Wednesday, December 7, 2016 • 1:00 – 4:00 PM • Henrietta Town Hall

Free and Open to the Public
